Each year, breast cancer kills more than 40,000 women in the United States and another 22,000 women are diagnosed with the disease. Miami-Dade County has higher rates of advanced stage breast cancer diagnosis compared to the state average. All zip codes in Miami Gardens exceed the County average of breast cancer diagnoses. This year, the City of Miami Gardens is fighting back by Painting the City Pink to raise money for breast cancer research and to encourage early screening.
